Lack of policemen to patrol the streets excuse made for the number of hold-ups and robberies in that district recently. The Tenderloin station has only 190 men on the roll now. The normal force is about 225 the transfer of men from the precinct without assigning others in their places Posts have plaining that they have too much ground plaining that they have too much ground to cover to do their work properly. The precinct is a big one, extending from Fourteenth to Forty-second street and from Fourth to Seventh avenues. A dozen posts in it are more than a mile long.

There are only two policemen on duty at night in Madison avenue, from Twenty-third to Forty-second street, and the dividing line of their posts is Thirtieth street. On Madison avenue in this section are a score of residences of wealthy men within which are millions of dollars worth of property. The posts in Fifth avenue are just as long about the only thoroughfare in which policemen seem to have short josts is Broadway. "The precinct is short of men." a policeman who has done ten years' duty in the Tenderloin said last night, "because a lot of fellows with pulls get themselves transferred to easier precincts."

M. the pelice, headed by Capt Walsh, rushed in and it was announced that every one present was under arrest. Men who had just entered protested that they were hard-working men who had committed no crime, but all were carted away in the patrol wagon and locked up for the night. Themas Lec. the reputed proprietor of the place, was taken along on a charge of violating the liquor tax law.

The second raid was made on the salcon at 15 Bowery. There were seventy-two men and thriteen women captured, including Richard Fitzpatrick, the proprietor. Some of the men carried carpenters tools, shovels, plumbers' kits and dinner palls. They were bundled into the patrol wason with professional pandandiers, cripples, tramps and theses. In the Essex Market police count later the two salconkeepers waived examination and were heid for trial.

Lawyer George Engel, partner of Assemblyman Timothy P. Sullivan, appeared for the prisoners. Ten men who Policeman Cohen swere had used bad language were fired $10 cach. The rest were discharged. All of the women, who were in appearance probably the most deprayed creatures ever arranged in the court, were sent to the Island for three months.
